

Make It UP! Manifesto

Make It UP! wants its members to believe if they can imagine it, they can make it.

We want everyone to feel like a Maker when they walk through our doors. No matter your age or experience level, you are welcome to come and explore our space and be inspired by it. Our staff and mentors are here to teach, encourage, and support.

When you open yourself to the Maker mindset, you can begin to see yourself as more than just a consumer -- you are productive! We can use what we know to be creative; our experiences in math, science, engineering, and art can help us to invent and create projects that make our world a better place. And through that creative process, we inspire those around us!

Makers not only share skills and knowledge with each other, they lift each other up and celebrate successes and failures. Because failure will happen. But along with failure comes the opportunity to learn and to make something better. We embrace our mistakes and we grow.

In our space, you can seek out opportunities to learn to do something new and different through hands-on interactions. Don't let someone else do it; do it yourself! And if you don't know how, reach out to those around you to help drive your curiosity and increase your knowledge. That's what being a Maker is all about!

Be a part of this growing, evolving, and exciting community that encourages creativity and innovation. We are here because we want to make things better... together.
